

Checking supply

Demonstrative one and ones

- We use one for singular noun and ones for plural noun
- We use this(singular) and these (plural) as pronoun

Grammar focus:

How much is this necklace? That necklace? Which one? It's $42 this one? That one? The blue one.

How much are these earrings/these? Those earrings/those? Which ones? They're $18

Which is question word refers to specific item already named. For example

Which dress do you want?

I want the red one

I want this one

I don't want that one

Which (one ) is yours?

This is mine

This one is mine

It can be plural

Which dresses do you want?

I want the red ones

I want these ones

I don't want those ones

Which (ones) are your?

These are mine

These ones are mine

Practice Conversation

How much is it?

Steve : Oh, look at those earrings, maria. They're perfect for you.

Maria : These red ones? I'm not sure.

Steve : No, the yellow ones.

Maria : Oh these? Hmm.. Yellow isn't really a good color for me.

Steve : Well, that necklace isn't bad.

Maria : Which one?

Steve : That blue one right there. How much is it?

Maria : it's $42! That's expensive!

Steve : Hey, let me get it for you. It's your birthday present. Happy birthday!